Your Medical Record Rights in Georgia

(A Guide to Consumer Rights under HIPAA)

JOY PRITTS, JD
HEALTH POLICY INSTITUTE
GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY
Your Medical Record Rights in Georgia
(A Guide to Consumer Rights under HIPAA)

Written by
Joy Pritts, JD
Health Policy Institute
Georgetown University

Funded by
Grant G13LM8312
The National Library of Medicine

© 2005 Georgetown University
INTRODUCTION

- About this guide
- Disclaimer
- Acknowledgments

1 OVERVIEW

Summary of your rights
- Who has to follow these laws?
- What records do I have the right to get and amend?
- Who has the right to get and amend my medical record?
- How long does my provider have to keep my medical record?

2 GETTING YOUR MEDICAL RECORD

Summary
- How do I ask for my medical record?
- What will happen if my request for my medical record is accepted?
- How long should it take to get my medical record?
- Will I have to pay for my medical record?
- Can I control where my medical record is sent?
- Can I get a paper, e-mail, or fax copy?
- Can I get a summary of my medical record?
- Can my health care provider deny my request for my record?
- What can I do if my provider denies my request for my record?

3 AMENDING (CORRECTING) YOUR MEDICAL RECORD

Summary
- How do I ask my health care provider to amend my medical record?
- What will happen if my request to amend my record is accepted?
- How long should it take to amend my record?
- Can my health care provider deny my request to amend my medical record?
- What can I do if my provider denies my request to amend my medical record?

4 ASKING QUESTIONS AND FILING COMPLAINTS

Who can answer my questions about getting and amending my medical record?
- What can I do if I believe my rights to get and amend my medical record have been violated?

5 WORDS TO KNOW

6 WHERE TO FIND MORE INFORMATION
Medical records are an important part of your health care. These records are a written history of your health condition and treatment. They are used by doctors, hospitals, health care clinics, and other health care practitioners and facilities to treat you.

A federal law called the HIPAA Privacy Rule gives you the right to get and amend (correct) your medical record by adding information to it. (HIPAA stands for the "Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act.") Georgia laws also give you rights in your medical record.

ABOUT THIS GUIDE

This guide is intended to help you understand how to see, get a copy of, and amend or correct medical records from Georgia health care providers who have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule. You can read guides about getting medical records from health care providers in other states at http://hpi.georgetown.edu/privacy/records.html.

This guide was designed so that you can read just the parts that interest you. For example, if you are interested in how much your provider can charge you for copying your medical record, you may want to focus on that part of the guide. We urge everyone to read "Who Is Covered by These Laws?" so that you can be sure the guide applies to your provider. Some basic information is repeated throughout the guide so that it is easily available to those who are reading only certain sections.

The rules explained in this guide only apply when you ask for your own medical record or when you ask for someone’s medical record as their personal representative. These rules do not apply when you request that your health care provider give your medical record to someone else (such as another doctor or a lawyer).

This guide does not discuss mental health records or records about drug and substance abuse treatment. Section 6 of this guide lists some resources where you can find some information about your right to get and amend these types of records.

Words to Know

Some of the words in this guide have a special meaning. In this guide "health care providers" or "providers" means medical doctors, chiropractors, dentists, hospitals, and others who provide health care. Section 5 explains these and other words that are helpful to know. The words explained in Section 5 are in boldface print the first time they appear in each section of the guide.
Rather than use the awkward phrases "he, she, or it" and "his, her, or its" this guide uses "they" and "theirs" when referring to health care providers in a general way. Examples that use "he" or "she" are meant to refer to both genders.

DISCLAIMER
The author has made every attempt to assure that the information in this guide is accurate as of the date of publication. Many areas of the law can be interpreted more than one way. This guide has tried to interpret the law in a way that is consistent with protecting health care consumer rights. Others might interpret the law in another way.

This guide is only a summary. The rights and procedures described in this guide can change depending on the circumstances. The information in this guide may not apply to your particular situation.

This guide should not be used as a substitute for legal or other expert professional advice. The author, Georgetown University, and the National Library of Medicine specifically disclaim any personal liability, loss, or risk incurred as a consequence of the use of any information in this guide.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS
This work was funded by grant G13LM8312 from the National Library of Medicine.

Sincere thanks to Deb Ashner for her adept research; Barry S. Herrin, Esq. of Smith Moore, LLP for his comments and suggestions on improving this guide; and Jeffrey S. Crowley, MPH, Mila Kofman, JD and Kevin Lucia, JD for their input on early versions of the guide. A special thanks also to Theresa Jordan, Donald Jones and Nina Kudszus for all of their technical skill in transforming the guides from rough drafts to polished, final product. Their help was invaluable. Any mistakes, however, are the author’s own.
1. OVERVIEW

Both the HIPAA Privacy Rule and Georgia law give you rights to your medical record. The HIPAA Privacy Rule sets standards that apply to records held by health care providers across the nation. Georgia law sets standards for records held by doctors, hospitals and other health care providers within the state. Most health care providers must follow both the HIPAA Privacy Rule and Georgia law. If a standard in Georgia law conflicts with a standard in the HIPAA Privacy Rule, your health care provider must follow the law that is the most protective of your rights.

SUMMARY OF YOUR RIGHTS

In Georgia you have the right to:

- See and get a copy of your medical record.
  Your health care provider usually must let you see your medical record or give you a copy of it within 30 days after they receive your request.

  Your health care provider is allowed to charge you a fee for copying your record. The cost per page depends on the number of pages copied. They can also charge you the actual cost for postage if you have the copy mailed to you.

- Correct your medical record by having information added to it.
  You have the right to have information added to your medical record to make it more complete or accurate. This right is called the right to amend your record.

- File a complaint.
  You have the right to file a complaint with the Office for Civil Rights, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services if you believe your health care provider has violated your right to see, get a copy of, or amend your medical record. You can also file a complaint with the state agency that regulates your health care provider.

- Sue in state court for violations of your rights under state law.
  You may have the right under Georgia law to sue in state court to obtain remedies for violations of your state medical record rights.

You can learn more about these rights in the following sections of guide.
WHO HAS TO FOLLOW THESE LAWS?
Most Georgia health care providers (such as doctors, dentists and hospitals) must follow both the HIPAA Privacy Rule and state laws that give patients rights in their medical records.

There are some health care providers, however, that do not have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule. The HIPAA Privacy Rule only covers health care providers that use computers to send health information for certain administrative or financial purposes (such as filing claims for insurance).

Example

Sometimes Ashley goes to a doctor at a free clinic for medical treatment. The doctor does not accept private insurance, Medicaid, or Medicare. The doctor does not file any insurance claims. Ashley’s doctor probably does not have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule because the doctor does not appear to send health information for the types of administrative or financial purposes that would make her a covered health care provider under the Rule.

If you have questions about whether your health care provider must follow the federal HIPAA Privacy Rule, you can contact the Office for Civil Rights, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (OCR), the agency that is in charge of enforcing the HIPAA Privacy Rule. Section 4 of this guide lists contact information for OCR.

Are nursing homes covered by HIPAA?
Yes. Most nursing homes are covered by the HIPAA Privacy Rule. They also have to follow other specific rules that only apply to nursing homes and long term care facilities. Because the rules for nursing homes are different than they are for other health care providers, they are not covered by this guide.

What if my health care provider does not have to follow HIPAA?
Even if your provider does not have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule, they still have to follow Georgia laws that give you rights to your medical record. Section 6 lists some resources that summarize these state laws.

This guide, however, only explains getting your medical record from Georgia providers who have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule and state law.
What Records Do I Have the Right to Get and Amend?

You have the right to see and get a copy of your medical record. You also have the right to correct your medical record by having information added to it to make it more complete or accurate. This right is called the right to amend your record. (This guide will call these rights the "right to get and amend").

Your medical record includes such things as:

- Information that identifies you, such as your name and Social Security number.
- Information that you tell your doctor, such as:
  - Your medical history.
  - How you feel at the time of your visit.
  - Your family health history.
- The results of your examination.
- Test results.
- Treatment received in a hospital.
- Medicine prescribed.
- Your health care provider's notes.
- Other information about things that can affect your health or health care.

You have the right to get and amend your record whether it is kept on paper, on a computer, or in some other format.

Who owns my medical record?

Under Georgia law, your health care provider owns the actual medical record. For example, if your provider maintains paper medical records, they own and have the right to keep the original record, but you have the right to see and get a copy of it.

What happens if my medical record has information in it that came from a different health care provider?

Generally, if your provider has the medical information that you request, they must give it to you. You have the right to get the information no matter who originally put it in the record. Your right to amend this information may be limited, though. For more information about how to amend information in your record you can read Section 3 of this guide.
Do I have the right to get and amend records about my mental health treatment?
Maybe. The rules for when you can get and amend your records about mental health treatment can be different. For example, mental health providers must provide access to inpatient mental health records within 5 days of a patient’s request; not within 30 days as allowed for other types of records. Because the rules for mental health records can be different they are not discussed in this guide. You can find some resources that explain your rights in these types of records in Section 6.

WHO HAS THE RIGHT TO GET AND AMEND MY MEDICAL RECORD?
You have the right to see and get a copy of medical records that are about you. You also have the right to correct medical records that are about you by having information added to them. (This guide calls these rights the right to "get and amend" your medical record.) If there is someone who acts as your personal representative, they usually have the right to get and amend your record on your behalf.

Do I have the right to get and amend my minor child’s medical record?
Generally, yes. As a parent or guardian, you are usually considered to be the personal representative of your minor child. As a personal representative, you have the right to get and amend your minor child’s medical record. In Georgia, you have these rights when your child is younger than 18 years old.

As a parent, do I always have the right to get and amend my child’s medical record?
No. A parent does not always have the right to get and amend a minor child’s medical record. For example, if a health care provider reasonably believes that a parent is abusing or neglecting a child, the provider does not have to treat the parent as the child’s personal representative. This means the provider does not have to give the parent access to the child’s medical record.

Some other situations where parents do not have the right to get and amend their child’s medical records are discussed in the following questions and answers.

Who has the right to get and amend my child’s medical record once she turns 18?
Once your child turns 18, your child has the right to see, get a copy of, and amend her own medical record. This includes getting access to records that were created when she was younger. You usually no longer have the right to get and amend your child’s medical record just because you are her parent.
I am a minor and I can legally consent to certain kinds of medical treatment without my parents’ permission. Who has the right to get and amend my records that are related to this treatment?

In Georgia, minors can consent to certain kinds of medical treatment, such as treatment for the venereal diseases syphilis, gonorrhea and chancroid (but not HIV), without their parents’ permission. If you consent to receive treatment for one of these venereal diseases, you have the right to get and correct your own medical record related to this treatment. In Georgia, it is up to your health care provider to decide whether your parents also can get and correct medical records that are related to treatment for these venereal diseases.

Example

Jason is sexually active and under 18. He consents to be treated for gonorrhea. Jason’s mother later requests a copy of his medical record. It is up to Jason’s doctor, using his professional judgment, to decide whether Jason’s mother should get the part of the record about Jason’s gonorrhea treatment.

The rules may be different when you, as a minor, obtain testing or treatment for other medical conditions without parental consent. If you have questions or concerns about whether your parent will have access to your medical information, you should talk to your health care provider.

I am listed as my mother’s agent on her health care power of attorney. Do I have the right to get her medical records?

Yes. If you have your mother’s health care power of attorney, you generally have the right to get and correct her medical records that are relevant to making health care decisions on her behalf. You have the right of access while the power of attorney is in effect.
Example

Maria’s mother signed a health care power of attorney form that gives Maria the power to make health care decisions if her mother is unable to make such decisions. The power of attorney form also states that Maria has the right to access her mother’s medical record. Maria’s mother was in a bad accident and is not able to make decisions about her health care. Maria now has the right to make health care decisions on her mother’s behalf. She also has the right to get her mother’s medical records. For example, Maria has the right to see the records about her mother’s current medical condition and treatment.

Maria is curious about the time her mother had a miscarriage. Maria wants to look at these old medical records. Maria does not have the right to get these medical records because the records have nothing to do with her mother’s current condition or treatment.

My father recently died. Do I have the right to get his medical record?

It depends. In Georgia, you have the right to get a deceased patient’s medical record if:

• You are the executor, temporary executor, administrator, or temporary administrator for the decedent’s estate.
• You were authorized immediately prior to death to have access to the patient’s record under a health care power of attorney for the patient.
• While alive the patient authorized you to receive their medical information using an authorization form that complies with the HIPAA Privacy Rule, and that authorization has not expired.

It is not clear whether you have the right to get a deceased's medical record if you are a close surviving relative of the deceased, such as a surviving spouse. Georgia law requires health care providers to furnish medical records upon request to certain survivors of deceased patients. However, some people believe this state law is overruled by the HIPAA Privacy Rule. Others believe that HIPAA does not overrule this state law and that it is still valid. If you have questions or complaints about being able to obtain a patient's medical record as a surviving relative, you may want to contact one of the state or federal agencies listed in Section 4 of this guide.
HOW LONG DOES MY PROVIDER HAVE TO KEEP MY MEDICAL RECORD?

State law requires many health care providers to keep your medical record for a certain period of time. For example, Georgia hospitals must keep most medical records for at least 5 years after the date that you were discharged from the hospital. Medical records for Medicare beneficiaries, and some diagnostic test reports, must be kept for 6 and sometimes 7 years. Most other health care providers (except hospitals) generally must keep your medical record for at least 10 years from the date the record was created. In practice, many health care providers keep their medical records longer.

You have a right to see, get a copy of, and amend your medical record for as long as your health care provider has it.
2. GETTING YOUR MEDICAL RECORD

Summary
You have the right to see your medical record. You also have the right to get a copy of your medical record. These rights are often called the right of access to your medical record.

Usually, your health care provider must respond to your request for your record within 30 days of receiving your request.

Generally, your health care provider must give you a copy in the format that you request if they are able to do so.

You may have to pay a fee to get a copy of your record.

How Do I Ask for My Medical Record?
You should ask your health care provider about their specific procedures for getting your medical record. Often, your provider has a form for requesting your medical record. You should use this form if one is available. You should be able to find some information about getting your medical record in your health care provider’s notice of privacy practices.

Can my provider require that I put my request for my medical record in writing?
Yes. Your health care provider can require that you put your request in writing. Your provider must let you know that they have such a requirement.

What information should I include in my request for my medical record?
If your health care provider does not have a form for requesting your medical record, you should check to see what information they require. Generally, when you ask for your medical record, your request should include:

- Your name, address, telephone number or other contact information.
- Your date of birth or medical record number.
- Date(s) of service (such as dates you were in the hospital).
- A description of the information that you want to see or copy. This might include:
  - Whether you want the entire record or just part of the record.
  - Medical condition for which you are asking information.
  - Specific test results.
  - Whether you want X-rays or records made by heart monitors or similar medical devices.
- Whether you want to see your medical record, want a copy of your record, or would like both.
Can my health care provider require that I include my Social Security number in my request for my medical record?
Yes. Because some health care providers use Social Security numbers as a way to identify medical records, they may need your Social Security number to locate your medical record. There is nothing in the HIPAA Privacy Rule or the Social Security Act that prohibits a private provider from engaging this practice.

Do I have to choose between seeing my medical record and getting a copy of it?
No. You have the right to do both.

Can my provider require me to show some proof of who I am in order to see or get a copy of my medical record?
Yes. Your health care provider is required to make sure you are the person who has the right to get the medical record before they give it to you. Your provider is allowed to choose the method for verifying your identity. For example, your provider might ask for an identification card (such as a driver’s license).

If you request a person’s medical record as their health care agent under a power of attorney, your request must include a copy of the power of attorney form that gives you the right to get the patient’s medical record. If you are requesting records on a deceased patient, your request should include a copy of the order from the court establishing your authority. You might also be expected to provide a copy of a death certificate as well.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN IF MY REQUEST FOR MY MEDICAL RECORD IS ACCEPTED?
Your health care provider will inform you if they agree to give you your medical record. If you asked to see your records, your health care provider must arrange a convenient time and place for you to review the record. If you have requested a copy of your record, your health care provider must either send it to you or arrange for you to pick up a copy.

HOW LONG SHOULD IT TAKE TO GET MY MEDICAL RECORD?
Generally, your provider must give you your medical record within a "reasonable time." This usually means that they must give it to you no later than thirty (30) days after they receive your request.
WILL I HAVE TO PAY FOR MY MEDICAL RECORD?

Maybe. Generally, health care providers may charge you for copying your medical record. In Georgia, as of July 1, 2005, your provider is allowed to charge you no more than the following fees:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Cost per page</th>
<th>For pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>93¢</td>
<td>1-20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80¢</td>
<td>21-100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>63¢</td>
<td>101 and up</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

These fees are adjusted annually on July 1st. Your provider can also charge you the actual cost of postage if you have the copies sent to you.

Can I be charged if I just want to look at or read my medical record?
No. Your health care provider cannot charge you a fee if you just look at or read your medical record.

Can I be charged a fee for someone searching for and retrieving my medical record?
No. Your health care provider may not charge you a fee for searching for or retrieving your record. Although Georgia law permits providers to charge search and retrieval fees, the HIPAA Privacy Rule prohibits them. Because the HIPAA Privacy Rule gives you greater rights in this area, your provider must follow HIPAA. Your provider may not charge these fees.

Can I be charged for copies of X-rays and similar records?
Yes. Your provider may charge you a reasonable cost-based fee for copying x-rays, fetal monitoring strips and other records not in standard paper form.

Can I be charged if I want a copy of my medical record sent to another health care provider or to a lawyer?
The procedures and fees for having a copy of your medical record sent to someone else (such as to another doctor or to a lawyer) are not covered by the HIPAA Privacy Rule. They are not discussed in this guide.
Can I Have My Medical Record Sent Somewhere Other Than My Home Address?
Yes. You can ask your health care provider to send the copy of your medical record to your regular address (such as your home) or to a different, preferred address (such as to your office or to a friend’s house). As long as your request is reasonable, your provider must send your record to the place that you identify.

Can I Get a Paper, E-mail, or Fax Copy?
It depends. Generally, your health care provider must give you your medical record in the format that you request if it is not difficult to do so. For example, if you request a paper copy of your record, your provider generally must give you a paper copy.

Providers also must make sure that they send your records to you in a secure manner. Due to security concerns, many health care providers are reluctant to send copies of medical records by e-mail or fax. You should check with your provider to see whether they are willing to send you a copy by e-mail or fax and to find out their specific procedures.

Can I Get a Summary or Explanation of My Medical Record?
It depends. You may want just a summary of your record. You may want your provider to explain some of the information in your record. Under the HIPAA Privacy Rule, your health care provider can give a summary or explanation of your medical record if you both agree in advance
• That it is all right for them to give you a summary or explanation, and
• To the fee, if any, for writing the summary or explanation.

Your health care provider generally must give you the summary no later than 30 days after they receive your request for the summary. If they are unable to produce the summary in this time, they can get a 30 day extension. Sometimes it can take longer.

Your provider can charge you a reasonable fee for the actual time they spend preparing the summary or explanation.
Example

Leon asks for a summary of his medical record. The record does not currently contain a summary and the doctor does not have the time or staff to prepare one. Leon’s doctor is not required to prepare a summary in response to Leon’s request. But the doctor must let Leon see or get a copy of his medical record.

---

I received a copy of my medical record, but I can’t understand it. Doesn’t my provider have to give me a copy that is in plain language that I can understand?

No. Health care providers often use technical words or a type of medical shorthand. Providers are not required to translate this information for you or give you your medical record in a form that you can understand. If you cannot understand what is written in your medical record, you can request an explanation of your record. But your provider is not required to give you an explanation. You can find some resources that explain medical terms in Section 6 of this guide.

---

CAN MY PROVIDER DENY MY REQUEST FOR MY MEDICAL RECORD?

Yes. Your health care provider can deny your request to see or get a copy of your medical record, but only in a few cases. For example, if your provider believes that letting you see your record might physically endanger you, they can deny your request.

How will I know if my request for my medical record has been denied?

Your health care provider must tell you in writing (by letter, fax, or e-mail) if they deny your request for your medical record. They must tell you why your request was denied. They also must tell you if you have a right to have their decision reviewed and how you can file a complaint.

Generally, your health care provider must give you this information within 30 days after receiving your request for your record.
Can my health care provider deny my request for my medical record just because they think I might get upset if I read it?
No. Your health care provider cannot deny you access to your record because they think the information in the record might upset you or that it might cause you mental harm. However, they can deny your request if they believe you will become upset enough to physically harm yourself.

Can my health care provider deny my request for my medical record because I have not paid my medical bill?
No. Your provider cannot deny your request for your medical record because you have not paid your medical bill.

What if my provider doesn’t have the medical record that I requested, but knows who has it?
Your provider must tell you who has your medical record if they know. However, your provider generally is not required to obtain your record from someone else.

Example
Tony sends a request for his chest x-ray film to his primary care physician. Although his physician has a report of the x-ray results, he does not have the original x-ray film that Tony requested. However, the primary care physician knows that ABC Radiology took the x-ray and has the original film. When the primary care physician responds to Tony’s request, the physician must inform Tony to send his request for his x-ray film to ABC Radiology.
My medical record contains some information that my provider is allowed to deny me access to. Does this mean that I can't get any of my medical record?

No. Under the HIPAA Privacy Rule, your health care provider must give you as much of your medical record as possible. Your provider may remove only the information that they are allowed to refuse to give you access to.

What can I do if my health care provider denies my request for my medical record?

You have rights under both Georgia law and the HIPAA Privacy Rule if your health care provider denies your medical record because they believe that seeing it might physically harm you.

Georgia Law
Under Georgia law, if your request for your medical record is denied, you can request that your medical record be furnished to another health care provider of your choice. Your request must be in writing. The request should plainly state that you are asking your provider to furnish your record to another provider under Georgia law. Upon receiving such a written request, your provider must furnish your record to the provider that you have chosen.

HIPAA Privacy Rule
Under the HIPAA Privacy Rule, if your provider denies your request for your medical record you have the right to have another health care professional review their decision. At the time your provider denies your request for your record, they must tell you in writing if you have a right to a review. They also must tell you how to ask for a review.

If you request a review, your provider must choose another licensed health care professional to review their decision. They cannot choose someone who was involved in the original decision. The reviewer makes the final decision whether you are allowed to get access to your medical record. Your provider must tell you in writing (such as by a letter, fax or e-mail) what the reviewer decides.
3. AMENDING (CORRECTING) YOUR MEDICAL RECORD

SUMMARY
When you read your medical record you may find something that you believe is not accurate. You might believe that important information is missing. You have the right to correct your medical record by having information added to your record to make it more complete or accurate. The HIPAA Privacy Rule calls this right the right to amend your medical record.

If your health care provider accepts your request to amend your record, they must add the information to your record.

If your provider denies your request to amend, they must tell you. You then have the right to add a short statement to your record that explains your position.

As a minor, do I have the right to amend my medical record under the HIPAA Privacy Rule?
Sometimes. As a minor, you usually do not have the right to amend your medical record. The right to amend (like the right of access) usually belongs to your parents.

However, if, as a minor, you legally consent to medical treatment (and the consent of your parents is not required for that treatment) you have the right to amend medical records related to that treatment.

HOW DO I ASK MY HEALTH CARE PROVIDER TO AMEND MY MEDICAL RECORD?
Before you ask your health care provider to amend your medical record, you should:
• Identify the part of your medical record that you think is inaccurate or incomplete.
• Identify the health care provider that created the information or that first put the information into your record.

You should ask your provider about their specific procedures for requesting an amendment to your medical record. Your health care provider may have a form for requesting an amendment. You should use this form if one is available. You should be able to find some information about amending your medical record in your provider’s notice of privacy practices.
Can my health care provider require that I put my request to amend my record in writing?

Yes. Your health care provider is allowed to require that you put your request to amend your record in writing. They are also allowed to require that you give them a reason why you want to amend your record.

What information must be included in my request to amend my medical record?
If your provider does not have a form for requesting your medical record, you should check to see what information your provider requires. Generally, you may want to include the following information in your request:

- Your name, address and other information about where they can contact you.
- Your date of birth or medical record number.
- The type of information you want to amend (such as lab results).
- A description of the information that you believe is inaccurate or incomplete.
- The information that you want them to add to your record.
- The reason why you want the information added.

Can my health care provider require that I include my Social Security number in my request to amend my medical record?
Yes. Because some health care providers use Social Security numbers as a way to identify medical records, they may need your Social Security number to locate your medical record so that they can amend it. There is nothing in the HIPAA Privacy Rule or the Social Security Act that prohibits a private provider from engaging in this practice.

Do I have the right to have information removed from my medical record?
No. You do not have the right to have information that is already in your record removed or altered. You only have the right to add more information.

I disagree with my provider’s diagnosis. Can I make them change it?
No. The right to amend your record is not supposed to be a chance to dispute a diagnosis. It is meant to give you the chance to correct your record by adding information to it.
WHAT HAPPENS IF MY REQUEST TO AMEND MY RECORD IS ACCEPTED?
If your health care provider accepts your request to amend your medical record, they must add the new information to your record. They also must tell you in writing that your request to amend was accepted.

You might know people or organizations that should be told about the new information. You should give their names and contact information to your health care provider. Your provider must give the amended health information to the people and organizations you identify.

HOW LONG SHOULD IT TAKE TO AMEND MY MEDICAL RECORD?
Generally, within 60 days after they receive your request, your health care provider must either
• Add the information to your medical record as you requested or
• Deny your request in writing.

Can it ever take longer?
Yes. If your health care provider is unable to act within 60 days, they can get one 30-day extension to respond. In order to do get this extension, they have to give you a written explanation for the delay and tell you the date they expect to respond. Even with an extension, they shouldn’t take more than 90 days to respond to your request to amend your record.

When does the 60 day time period begin?
The 60 days does not start until your health care provider receives your request to amend your medical record. If you mailed your request, you should make sure you include some additional time for mail delivery when you count days for these deadlines.
CAN MY HEALTH CARE PROVIDER DENY MY REQUEST TO AMEND MY MEDICAL RECORD?

Yes. There are times when your health care provider can deny your request to amend your medical record. Generally, your provider can deny your request when:

- They determine your record is accurate or complete.
- They did not create the information that you want to amend.

If your health care provider denies your request to amend your record, they must let you know in writing. Your provider also must tell you why they denied your request.

The provider that created the information that I want to amend isn’t around any more. Is there anything I can do?

You can ask your current provider to amend your information. You should explain to them in as much detail as possible that the health care provider who first created the information that you want to amend is no longer available to act on your request. If your explanation is reasonable, your current provider cannot deny your request to amend just because they did not create the medical information.

Example

Brianna wants to amend information in her medical record that was originally put in her record by Dr. Smith. Dr. Smith has retired. Brianna asks Dr. Jones, her current doctor, to amend her medical record. She shows Dr. Jones the letter Dr. Smith sent to his patients announcing his retirement. Dr. Jones cannot refuse to amend Brianna’s record just because he didn’t create the information she wants to amend.
WHAT CAN I DO IF MY REQUEST TO AMEND MY MEDICAL RECORD IS DENIED?
If your request is denied, you have the right to give your health care provider a written statement that explains why you disagree with their decision. Your provider may reasonably limit the length of your statement. Your provider must make your statement part of your medical record. In the future, when your provider shares your medical information with others, your provider must also give them a copy of their denial of your request to amend and a copy of your statement of disagreement.

What if my health care provider disagrees with my statement of disagreement?
If your health care provider disagrees with your statement, they have the right to put a note in your record that says why they do not agree with you. They must give you a copy of this note.

Do I have the right to have someone else review my health care provider’s denial of my request to amend my records?
No. If your health care provider denies your request to amend your medical record you do not have the right to have someone else review that decision.
4. ASKING QUESTIONS AND FILING COMPLAINTS

This guide is just a summary of your rights to see, get a copy of, and amend (correct) your medical record. If you have more questions or would like to file a complaint you can contact the people and organizations listed below. You can also contact professional help if necessary.

WHO CAN ANSWER MY QUESTIONS ABOUT GETTING AND AMENDING MY MEDICAL RECORD?
There are a number of resources available to answer your questions about getting and amending your medical record.

Your health care provider
Your health care provider should be able to answer many of your questions about getting and amending your medical record. Your provider’s notice of privacy practices must contain a general description of your right to see, get a copy of, and amend your medical record. The notice also must list the name (or title) and the telephone number of a contact person who should be able to answer your questions about getting and amending your medical record. In addition, some providers have Web sites that list information on how to see, get a copy of and amend your medical record.

Office for Civil Rights, United States Department of Health and Human Services (OCR)
You may be able to get answers to your questions about your rights under the HIPAA Privacy Rule from OCR, the federal agency in charge of enforcing the HIPAA Privacy Rule. OCR provides fact sheets for consumers and responses to frequently asked questions on its Website http://www.hhs.gov/ocr/hipaa/. If you do not find your question answered here you can call OCR at 1-866-627-7748. This is a toll free number. OCR requests that you read their responses to frequently asked questions before you call this number.
WHAT CAN I DO IF I BELIEVE MY RIGHTS TO GET AND AMEND MY MEDICAL RECORDS HAVE BEEN VIOLATED?

Before taking any formal action, you should try to informally solve your problems getting and amending your medical record with your health care provider. If you are unable to resolve your issues informally, there are a number of possible actions you can take.

You can file a complaint with your health care provider.
You have the right, under the HIPAA Privacy Rule, to file a complaint with your health care provider. Your health care provider’s notice of privacy practices must describe how to file a complaint.

You can file a complaint with the Office for Civil Rights, Health and Human Services (OCR).
You can get detailed information about filing a complaint with OCR at: http://www.hhs.gov/ocr/privacyhowtofile.htm.

In Georgia, you can file a complaint with the regional OCR office at:
Office for Civil Rights
U.S. Department of Health & Human Services
61 Forsyth Street, SW. - Suite 3B70
Atlanta, GA 30323
(404) 562-7886; (404) 331-2867 (TDD)
(404) 562-7881 FAX

You can call OCR at 1-800-368-1019 if you need help filing a complaint or have a question about the complaint form. This is a toll free call.

Your provider cannot threaten you or do anything else to get even with you if you file a complaint.

You can file a complaint about your doctor with the Composite State Board of Medical Examiners at:
Composite State Board of Medical Examiners
Attn: Complaint Unit
2 Peachtree St., NW, 36th Floor
Atlanta, GA 30303
404-657-6487 (tel.)

You can obtain additional information on filing complaints and download a complaint form from the Board’s Web site at: http://www.medicalboard.state.ga.us/ under “File a Complaint.”
You can file a complaint about your hospital with the Georgia Department of Human Resources, Office of Regulatory Services at:
Georgia Department of Human Resources
Office of Regulatory Services
Complaint Intake Unit
2 Peachtree Street, NW Suite 31
Atlanta, GA 30303
404-657-5728 (tel.)

You can read more information about filing complaints on the Department’s web site at: http://ors.dhr.georgia.gov/portal/site/DHR-ORS/. Look under "Frequently Asked Questions."

Can I sue my health care provider for violating my rights to get and amend my medical record?
You do not have the right to sue your health care provider in federal court (United States District Court) for violating your right to get and amend your medical record under the HIPAA Privacy Rule.

You might have the right to bring a law suit in a Georgia court for violations of your state medical record rights. In Georgia, you generally cannot sue to challenge copying fees if you have already paid the charges.
Correct. This guide uses the word "correct" to mean adding information to your medical record to make it more accurate or complete.

Health care provider or provider. As used in this guide, "health care provider" or "provider" includes hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, kidney disease treatment centers, ambulatory surgical and obstetrical facilities, physicians, acupuncturists, podiatrists, chiropractors, dentists, and others.

HIPAA Privacy Rule. A set of legal rules written by the United States Department of Health and Human Services under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA). These rules set national standards that give patients the right to see, copy, and amend their own health information. They also set standards protecting the privacy of health information. The HIPAA Privacy Rule does not apply to everyone who keeps health information about you. Only health care providers (such as doctors and hospitals), health plans (such as health insurers and Medicare) and health care clearinghouses (organizations that put health information into or out of an electronic format) have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule. Other people (such as employers) generally do not have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule.

HIPAA. Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996. This federal law directed the United States Department of Health and Human Services to write rules protecting the privacy of health information. The federal law leaves in place state laws that have privacy protections that are equal to or greater than the federal law.

Notice of Privacy Practices. A notice that health care providers must give their patients that explains the patients’ rights under the HIPAA Privacy Rule. Your provider must give you this notice when they first see you. They also must give you a copy of the notice when you ask for one. The notice of privacy practices must also explain how a provider can use health information and share it with others.

Personal representative. This guide uses the term “personal representative” to refer to someone who has the legal right to make health care decisions on behalf of another person.

Right of Access. The right to see and get a copy of your medical record.

Right to Amend. The right to have information added to your medical record to make it more complete or accurate. The right to amend does not mean a right to have information erased or removed.
6. WHERE TO FIND MORE INFORMATION

This guide only discusses how to get and amend your medical records from health care providers who have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule. The guide mentions some related topics without discussing them in detail. Here are some resources where you can find information about these related topics.

Alcohol and Drug Treatment Records
Records related to alcohol and drug treatment may be subject to other privacy rules. You can get more information about these records at:
http://hipaa.samhsa.gov/Part2ComparisonCleared.htm

Georgia Health Record Access Laws
Some health care providers do not have to follow the HIPAA Privacy Rule. These providers must still follow Georgia laws that give you the right to see and get a copy of your medical record. The Code of Georgia § 31-33-1 through 31-33-4 (Title 31, Chapter 33, Sections 1 through 4, Health Records) give patients access rights to their health records. You can read these laws at:
http://www.legis.state.ga.us/

You can read the Georgia regulations that apply to hospital records at:
http://rules.sos.state.ga.us/docs/290/9/7/18.pdf

Medical Records in General
You can read general information on your medical record rights, the flow of medical information, and how to create a personal medical record at http://www.myphr.com/ a Website operated by the American Health Information Management Association, an association of professionals who manage medical records and information.

Medical Terms
You can find out the meaning of many medical terms and medical shorthand from the Medical Library Association’s Website at:
http://www.mlanet.org/resources/consumr_index.html
Your library might also have books or brochures that explain medical terms.
Mental Health Treatment Records
The Code of Georgia § 37-3-162 (Title 37, Chapter 3, Section 162, Mental Health) gives patients access rights to their mental health records. You can read this statute at http://www.legis.state.ga.us/

The HIPAA Privacy Rule treats most mental health treatment records like other medical records. However, psychotherapy notes (as defined by the HIPAA Privacy Rule) are treated differently. You can read about how these notes are treated in the Summary of the Privacy Rule written by the Office for Civil Rights, HHS at: http://www.hhs.gov/ocr/hipaa/